INTRODUCTION

In North Thailand, tribal people in a number of different and widely scattered villages are turning from animism towards Christ. Often these people turn in groups of families, and occasionally whole villages turn as a unit. Some church associations are sending national workers to teach in some of these villages. This program is an attempt to help these national workers know what to teach in order to lead these new "believers" into a true faith and to help establish a local church in that village that, hopefully, can function at the end of a year without residential help from the national worker.

The basic plan calls for a teacher to reside in a village for a period of one year only. During that year, various goals need to be reached. If these goals are reached as the Holy Spirit works in the hearts and lives of the new believers, then the national worker is freed to move on to another village and continue the same pattern of ministry. If the goals are not reached in a year, a decision will need to be made whether to keep the national worker there for a longer period, or whether it would be better for him to go elsewhere and try to meet the needs of the original village some other way. The knowledge of the "impermanence" of the national worker is an incentive to the new believers to be actively learning how to lead their own church.

The course is designed then, not just to teach new believers but, at the same time, to train them to continue to function as an emerging church when the national worker withdraws. Once the teacher moves away, the ongoing teaching of the church is done by emerging local teachers-leaders. These emerging leaders will have continued training through 3-5 day Leadership Training Schools held periodically.

Before the national workers are given the teaching program, they attend a 2-3 day training seminar to introduce the program to them and to practice using it during the seminar. Every three months the national workers should attend another seminar to discuss progress, problems and alternative suggestions, and to go over the next three months' teaching material. Occasional visits are made by missionaries and association leaders to monitor the program and to encourage the national worker in his village.

GOAL

The goal of the teaching program is to give sufficient teaching necessary to help a group of people recently turned from animism, move through the embryonic church stage to the beginning of the emerging church stage.

Sub-Goals

1. To have a nucleus of born-again, baptized believers
2. To have literate, functioning leadership (though not yet necessarily appointed as elders at this stage)
3. To see the church beginning to develop ministry towards God, towards one another, and to the world

TACTICS

These tactics are designed to fit into the normal practices of the tribal churches with regard to frequency of meetings, and to use what literature is normally available in tribal languages. Probably none of the older people would be literate in any language when they turn from animism though a few of the children may have had some Thai education.

Each Evening	Teach literacy teach only the men since the potential leadership must get literate. Teach hymns
Mid-week Meeting	Teach a portion of the catechism
Sunday Morning Meeting	Teach according to the program
Sunday mid-day	Train the man who will teach at the evening meeting.
Sunday Evening Meeting	Teach according to the program making sure that the application is followed through on.

The national worker needs to select out a few men who appear to be of leadership age and have leadership potential. Each week, right from the first week of the program, one of these men needs to be selected to teach during the evening meeting, the same message as that given by the national worker at the morning meeting. It is important that this pattern be established right from the beginning.

Sometime between the Sunday morning meeting and the Sunday evening meeting, the national worker will need to teach this man privately. The message is likely to be condensed into a few sentences by this new "teacher" when he gives it in the evening meeting but he is beginning to teach! This new teacher can also lead the singing and teach the memory verse as able, and together with the national worker, he should lead the church to follow through on whatever application they agree on.

TEACHING PROGRAM

The teaching program is divided into four quarters. The first quarter is designed to give a basic understanding of what a church is and what a church does. It covers some of the basic needs felt by the tribal person recently turned from animism. The second quarter seeks to show; what a Christian is and how one becomes a Christian, and this quarter is a good time to hold an evangelistic thrust in the village primarily to lead those in the church to a saving knowledge of Christ. The third quarter covers some basic, simple Christian doctrine, while the fourth quarter teaches about various aspects of church life and membership suitable for the beginning of the emerging church stage of Church development

As far as possible the Bible passages read and taught are kept very small, and the teaching drawn from the selected passages. This means that only a superficial covering of the various topics is given. However, this is probably sufficient for the church at this stage of its existence. It also helps teach the new emerging leaders how to get messages from selected passages. In some instances, it has not been possible to follow through on this ideal and teaching has had to be drawn from several passages.

This teaching program is a suggested one only; there is nothing fixed about it. It can, and no doubt will be changed as more national workers use it in their teaching ministry, and as we review it as necessary.

It is however a valuable tool for national workers, many of whom often or not know what to teach each week, nor how to teach towards goals. It is designed for both those national workers who have had a bible school education as well as those who have not. It has been produced with grateful thanks to God for such national workers, and the prayer that it will be of use to them in building up the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The teaching program is based on "Stages of Local Church Development" pp 18-20 North Thailand Church Planters' Handbook produced by O.M.F., Chiangmai, North Thailand.
